

The Manifest - December 2024

Air France now offers an online check-in option to Marine/Energy passengers travelling on Air France operated flights only.

'Ready to Fly' is Air France's designated online portal, designed to improve your journey by reducing manual document checks at the airport. Starting 55 hours before departure, passengers will receive an email named " important information about your trip" inviting them to securely upload their supporting travel documents in advance via the 'Ready to Fly' portal to confirm eligibility for AF/KL Marine/ Energy fares tickets.

Once the documents have been successfully uploaded and validated, an email is sent to the passenger to complete check-in and print the boarding card. Should the document not be accepted, a subsequent email will be sent advising so and providing additional instructions to upload further documentation if necessary.
